Devon Strong
February 26th - March 1st

Hi, I just want to start this by saying that I'm sorry this is pretty empty, I was absent quite a bit this week.

Date	Things Completed
Monday	- Re-evaluated parts of what I plan on doing for Personal Interest, realized that the STEM camps seem unlikely due to the B&G Club kinda just disappearing from SSG talks, and started steering my ideas more towards Uni prep and more academic things - Worked through Cyber Security course material a bit
Tuesday	- Sick (Did not do much)
Wednesday	- Worked through some more of the TryHackMe site's stuff - Kinda unrelated, but also worked a bit on scholarship / resume stuff in preparation for University
Thursday	- Snow/Rain Day (Inclimate Weather) - Realized that my Linux Installation was truly borked, and worked on setting up a dual-boot with Windows, took longer than I thought though because of some weird disk partitioning issues - Re-set up a bunch of the stuff that I had setup on the Linux install, mainly C stuff and other requisites to properly compile the website (Jekyll)
Friday	- Sick (Again)

Summary / Highlights

- Bounced back and forth between health and lack of health, was a grand old time
- Finally realized how my Linux days were kinda doomed and started transitioning back to Linux
- Worked through more Cybersecurity stuff, both in the NBVHS course and the TryHackMe site