Date	Things Completed
Monday	NULL (Absent (I've kind of just made myself have like a 3-Day Weekend, just feeling the Senioritis really kick in)
Tuesday	• Wanna say that I spent the day in the tech-booth, I believe that I started documenting our funky lights, and how to use them. Just going over what each channel does, their different settings and what not.
Wednesday	• Spent today going over procedures on how to control funky lights and regular lights at the same time, make different scenes in myDMX, all that funky stuff.
Thursday	• Spent the period fixing lights, back from the Green and White Review there was a light pointed at the Stage Right wall, messed with some of Grant's theater arts class stuff, so just spent the day re-adjusting things • Learned that I can use the closed curtains to get things roughly equal level and get a full-stage flood.
Friday	NULL (Absent (Stayed home for a workday, like 4 of 5 Periods were just work periods and unfortunately that's just not it)). Did continue working on the Tehcie-Document which just goes over a techie procedure and how to do things that otherwise would have to be learned through Trial and Error

Summary / Highlights

I have no clue if it's been mentioned yet, honestly I've been saying this for the past several months, but I really need to start writing down things as I do them, but there now exists a Techie-Manual in the works that will instruct people on general procedures and how to do the more obscure things that I hadn't really done until this year at least.